Dick Scarlet Fever Toxin, Controlled by Chicago Foundation

WASHINGTON—The story published in this column July 25 regarding the development of a new serum in the fight against scarlet fever has aroused considerable discussion and some criticism in medical circles.

The article, based upon information received at the National Health Institute, stated that the Public Health Service had discovered a toxoid which produced immunity against scarlet fever in 82 per cent of 1,100 cases tested, that this treatment was based on the patent of scarlet fever toxin held by Doctors George and Gladys Dick, of Chicago, that the Dicks had refused to turn this patent over to the Government, that Dr. George Dick had indicated his willingness to give this discovery to science, but that his wife, Dr. Gladys Dick, declined, and that as a result the scarlet fever range continued to be high.

Several notable physicians challenge these facts. In order to clarify the situation it should be stated that control of the Dick patent is vested in a foundation known as the Scarlet Fever Committee, with headquarters in Chicago. This committee has not confirmed the laboratory experiments of the United States Public Health Service.

Furthermore, the Dicks in their own investigations find that the toxoid prepared by workers of the Public Health Service is not really a toxoid, that it contains sixteen times as much unaltered toxin as originally claimed, that the product immunized only forty per cent instead of 87 per cent, and that altogether satisfactory evidence of the existence of scarlet fever toxoid is lacking.

For this reason, the Scarlet Fever Committee felt that the time was not ripe to license any products to be sold under the name of Scarlet Fever Toxoid.

The Doctors Dick were the recipients of the Cameron Prize in England and Scotland last year for their notable contribution to the fight against scarlet fever, and they are in line for the Nobel Prize in the near future. The importance of their contribution to science cannot be over-emphasized and any reflection upon it is to be regretted.

Hookey

Dynamic David E. Lillenthal, Director of TVA, took a couple of hours off the afternoon for a round of golf with a friend.

As they made their way over the fairway they saw ahead of them a lone player who seemed to be having a hard time with his game. He hooked, sliced, dug up divots, missed the ball completely.

When they finally caught up with him Lillenthal recognized the lone player as a minor TVA executive—who was supposed to be at his desk. When he saw his boss he looked extremely embarrassed. "I'm playing hookey this afternoon," he explained.

"So that is what it is," laughed Lillenthal. "We could see very clearly it wasn't golf."

Tough Guys

The new National Labor Relations Board is giving every indication of becoming the "tough guy" of the Administration.

It is not saying much. But it is doing plenty of cracking down. Although it has been in operation only a month, it already has cited more cases to the NRA Compliance Division for punitive action than did the old Board in its ten months of existence.

Under the law the NLRB does not have the power to proceed legally against defiant or recalcitrant employers. It is up to the Blue Eagle to do that. But Chairman Lloyd Garrison and his two colleagues are intent on keeping the NRA busy.

They have wielded the big stick on obdurate concerns and minced neither words nor blows. Take for instance, the Board's bare-knuckle handling of the controversy with the Chicago Motor Coach Co.

FATE OF TWO WOMEN HANGING IN BALANCE

Jury Deliberates Coshocton-co Poison Case; Session Long One

MRS. ANTONIO READY

Governor's Action Last Chance of Mother

By International News Service

The fate of two mothers was in the balance today as a jury deliberated in one state and a governor studied final pleas in another state. Mrs. Amelia Webb Wardrop, 43, who stands accused in the "poison" murders of her son and daughter, was awaiting the report of a jury in Coshocton-co common pleas court. No inkling when the jury would report was available at noon.

In New York state, Mrs. Anna Antonio, mother of three small children, was preparing for the fourth time for death in the electric chair with Governor Lehman's mercy her only hope. Mrs. Antonio is scheduled to die tonight.

TRIAL 14 DAYS

COSHOCKTON, Aug. 9.—The fate of Mrs. Amelia Webb Wardrop, 43-year-old mother who stands accused of the "rat poison" slayings of her two children, today was in the hands of the jury of 12 men who heard her sensational 14-day trial at which the state demanded the electric chair for the woman.

The jury was given the case late yesterday afternoon after the court instructed it to return one of three verdicts—guilty without recommendation of mercy, guilty with a recommendation of mercy, or not guilty.

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 9.—For the fourth time, Mrs. Anna Antonio, convicted husband murderer and mother of three children, prepared to die today.

Three other times there had been last-minute reprieves but now there seemed no hope.

The electric chair waited around the corner—fourteen short steps from the death cell where the doomed woman sat listlessly on her cot.

REFUSED 3 TIMES

The governor is the only one who may stay her trudge to the death chamber at 11 o'clock tonight. Three times the higher courts have ruled against her plea for a new trial.

"It looks as if they've all turned me down," Mrs. Antonio told the matron. "God alone can help me. I am not thinking of myself, so much. I am thinking of what it will mean to the future of my children."

"Nobody can know how terrible it is to be in here except someone who has gone through it."

Mr. Maley was born in Fayette, a son of James and Mary Maley.

He married Nancy George, who preceded him in death. The following survive: children, Forrest, of North Industry, Stark-co; Dewey of Chicago, and Garlinda Boss of Dayton; brother, George and sister, Rose Lingo, of Williamsport; and a sister, Cora Hunt, of New Holland.

New Deal Stays Says Roosevelt

GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 9.—President Roosevelt came into the politically turbulent and progressive state today with a message that the "New Deal" is here to stay—and that there will be no return to "Old Deal."

Confidence, he said, is returning to every legitimate line of business. Those who lack that confidence, he asserted, are those who profited unjustly under the old order, "the old law of the tooth and claw."

"This government intends no injury to honest business," he said. "The processes we follow in seeking social justice do not in adding to general prosperity take from one and give to another. In the modern world, the spreading out

Carries Ashville by More Than Two to One; Donahey Lead Increases.

Charles Sawyer continued to lead his three opponents for the Democratic nomination for governor in The Herald's straw vote Thursday, although Martin L. Davey, Kent tree surgeon, made heavy gains in Wednesday's voting.

Vic Donahey's votes are still piling up and he now leads his nearest opponent, Governor George White nearly five to one.

The Herald's representatives visited Ashville Wednesday morning, where 101 ballots were cast. Davey received a heavy vote in this village, getting 35 out of 59 votes cast for Democratic nominees for governor. Sawyer got 14, Pickrel, nine, and Hubbell, one.

FIFTY-THREE TO SEVEN

Mr. Donahey received 53 votes to Governor White's seven in the Ashville voting, and the third candidate, Congressman West, scored one vote.

Clarence J. Brown and Daniel E. Morgan ran closely in the balloting for the Republican nomination for governor, although Morgan won out by a count of 16 to 13.

Senator Simeon Fess continues to get most of the votes for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator. In the Ashville voting, Fess got 26, John Vorys, four, Judge Walter Wanamaker, two, and Edward Lamb, one.

Eighty-eight votes were cast in a poll taken in the southern part of the city Wednesday afternoon. The Esheiman milling plant and Sears and Nichols Co. were included in the visit, while a number of grocery stores and other business establishments were also polled.

CONGRESSMAN SPEAKER HERE

Lauds New Deal, Sees Redistribution of Wealth; Others On Program.

Congressman Mell G. Underwood, of New Lexington, speaking at a meeting arranged by the Pickaway-co Democratic Women's club in the court room, Wednesday evening, praised the New Deal, condemned critics of rugged individualism and the "raw deal," and predicted a redistribution of wealth in this country within the next few years.

Underwood was introduced as the principal speaker at the meeting, although two other congressional candidates were present as well as several persons seeking state offices.

Governor George White sent a telegram expressing regret at his failure to attend the meeting.

PLEDGES SUPPORT

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Underwood took occasion to praise all of his four opponents for the Democratic nomination for congressman from the 11th district, declaring "they are all fine gentlemen and if the voters of the district see fit to select one of them instead of me, the nominee will receive my unqualified support."

The congressman said a redistribution of wealth in the country is inevitable and will come through

COUNTY ASKED TO COOPERATE WITH PLANS OF STATE

The county auditor's office, Thursday, was asked to cooperate with Governor George White's commission on county government, provided by the passage of the home rule amendment last November.

R. C. Atkinson, secretary of the commission, requested a list of county offices, boards, commissions and other agencies in the county at the present time.

MUNICIPAL PLANT ADVISED FOR LIMA

LIMA, Aug. 9.—Recommending that the city establish its own power plant to generate electric current for street lights and municipal institutions, Mayor Allen L. Metheny today declared that a municipally-owned plant would save the city at least $25,000 a year.

He claimed that current could be produced at a cost of one-half cent per kilowatt hours while the city now pays the Ohio Power company four cents per kilowatt hour. The city now owes the power company more than $80,000 for current consumed since August 1932. The light bills of the city are delinquent.

FLYERS BEAT OCEAN, LAND NEAR LONDON

Not Sighted from Time They Left Canada, Until Reaching Shore

FAR SHORT OF GOAL

Were Trying to Win Long Distance Mark

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The trans-Atlantic airplane attempting a non-stop flight from Toronto to Bagdad landed at Hexton air-drome near London at 6 o'clock this evening, twelve o'clock, Eastern Standard time, according to the Evening Standard.

The fliers, James Ayling and Leonard Reid, had left Toronto yesterday intent on establishing a new long distance flight record. They had not been reported sighted until they landed today.

Every passenger ship and freighter and all radio equipped fishing boats and smaller craft had been instructed to be on the lookout for their plane, "The Trail of the Caribou."

WEATHER GOOD

The air ministry after making a special weather survey for International News Service reported that the fliers would experience exceptionally favorable weather conditions when they came within 800 miles of the Irish coast.

In this area they would have a 30 mile wind on their tail and be able to make remarkable speed over the British Isles to the continent.

However, the air ministry pointed out, between Newfoundland and that point they must have experienced considerable low clouds and rain necessitating blind flying, the bane of transoceanic fliers.

The fliers, who had practically no long distance flight experience, were seeking to better the record made last year by Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi, when they flew from New York to Rayak Syria, a distance of 5,657 miles. The distance from their starting point to Bagdad is approximately 6,300 miles.

An all-time record was established at Springfield, Ill., with an official reading of 107.5.

At Quincy, Ill., where a new August heat record was set at 110 degrees, one death and four prostrations resulted. Two died at Pana, Ill.

Forecasters predicted rainfall today in the Great Lakes region, Iowa, Missouri and Ohio. Rains have fallen in North Dakota and Minnesota in the van of the approaching high pressure area. Torrential rains fell in the arid regions of Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Drouth conditions are extremely bad from the Rock mountains eastward to the Mississippi river, the weather bureau here reported.

Fate Of Truck Strike In Doubt

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 9.—The spotlight in the Minneapolis truck drivers strike shifted today to federal court.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson was scheduled to appear to combat the injunction proceedings of employers of striking truck drivers who demand that martial law be called off. They claim that presence of the troops is interfering with their legitimate business and the free use of the streets.

The governor, on the other hand, instituted martial law to "restore law and order."

It virtually has stopped picketing and violence and he sees no reason why it should not be continued.

FUTURE OF STRIKE

Upon the outcome of today's court action rests the future of the strike, in the opinion of observers.

If the court sustains the governor, some persons foresee a quick end of the strike with the employers forced to restore normal business under the terms of the federal mediators' peace plan which involves concessions to the strikers on their part.

However, if the court holds with the employers and decides that the governor. They see in the governor's interest in using troops to supercede civil authorities, picketing probably will be resumed.

It is almost certain that picketing would bring violence. Some observers believe the employers might import strike breakers who would attempt to operate trucks under convoy of Minneapolis police. Employers are chafing under the rigid restrictions laid down by the governor. They see in the governor's action a deliberate plan to force them to capitulate to the strikers.

Only firms that agree to abide by the peace proposal of the federal mediators, Father Francis J. Haas and E. H. Dunigan, are being granted military permits to operate trucks.

MANY AGREEING

Many small concerns—those outside the group of 166 firms comprising the employers advisory committee—are falling into line and agreeing to the terms of the Haas-Dunigan plan. Trucks of such concerns are operating while trucks of the larger employers remain idle.

"Congressman Underwood Picked to Win in Six-Cornered Race"

Reports from all five counties of the 11th District indicate that Congressman Mell G. Underwood is still a strong favorite with the Democratic voters of the District and will again be selected as their candidate for Congress in the primaries next week. Political observers say that Underwood will receive more votes than all of his five opponents combined.

Underwood has always been a strong candidate, popular alike with Democrats and Republicans. In the general election two years ago, he swept all five counties by a two to one vote with the following majorities: Perry (Underwood's home county, normally 2,000 Republican) by a majority of 4,006; Fairfield by 5,658; Ross by 2,870; Pickaway by 3,060 and Hocking County by a 2,711 majority. Underwood's total majority in the District was 18,305 votes; the largest ever received by any candidate for Congress. In the preceding election he carried all five counties with a majority of approximately 17,000.

Mell G. Underwood has made one of the best Congressmen the 11th District has ever had. A vote for Underwood is a vote for able, honest, efficient and courteous service to all the people all the time.

Congressman Underwood has a splendid record of faithful and efficient service to all his constituents, regardless of party. His many friends throughout the District predict that he will again carry all the counties, and will be re-elected easily, by an increased majority.

Republican politicians are trying to defeat Underwood in the primaries, because they know that if the Democrats select him, they will again elect a Democratic Congressman. The Democratic voters of this District will not be deceived by eleventh hour propaganda and falsehoods against a loyal and faithful public servant.

We need Underwood in Congress. Vote for him and ask your friends to do likewise. He will be grateful for your help and a kind word in his behalf.

Underwood Plans to Probe Complaints on Corn & Hog Reduction

Several Pickaway-co farmers who signed contracts with the federal government in the corn-hog reduction program, complained to Congressman Mell G. Underwood, of New Lexington, while he was in the city Wednesday, about the administration of the program here.

The complaints, the congressman said, centered around the flat two per cent cuts which were made in this county after contracts had been signed. It was explained at the farm bureau that such action was necessary as it was discovered that the county's quota remained too high after contracts were signed.

"I expect to investigate the facts and lay the entire matter before Secretary of Agriculture Wallace when I return to Washington next week," the congressman declared.

There were only a few objections to the two per cent cuts after it was found it would be necessary, it was said at the farm bureau today.

To the Voters of Pickaway County:

Due to the impossibility of seeing every voter personally before the Primary election, because of the fact that my office demands constant attention, I desire to issue the following statement to all the voters of Pickaway-co:

During my term of office as Sheriff of Pickaway County I have conscientiously endeavored to give the people of this county an efficient, honest and economical administration. I have attempted to aid the taxpayers by operating the office economically as possible. In feeding the prisoners I have used nothing but Pickaway County goods whenever possible.

No major crime committed during my administration remains unsolved. Through the efficiency of my deputies, evidence against various criminals has been so strong that in the greatest majority of the cases they have pleaded guilty, thereby saving the county much in court costs, jury fees and witness fees.

I have made every effort to treat all persons alike in enforcing the laws of this State, and to cooperate successfully with all city, county and state officials.

I rely entirely upon the record of my administration as an enforcer of the law, and your support will be greatly appreciated.

Respectfully,

CHARLES H. RADCLIFF

Summary of Peter Albiezt

Peter Albiezt was educated in the public schools of Cincinnati, Ohio, later graduated from the East Evening High School of the same city and later enrolled in the Y. M. C. A. law school of said city.

He is a Spanish-American War veteran and was formerly Sergeant in F Company, First United States Infantry. His war record includes service in Cuba and during the insurrection in the Philippines.

He came to Columbus twenty-two years ago to serve under the Auditor of State, Vic Donahy, as State Examiner and later as State Tax Deputy, and has been a resident of the 10th District for the past twenty-one years.

He later served under Governor Cox in the State Securities Department and during part of his service in that department was supervisor of small loan companies.

Last year he led the fight before the present General Assembly to protect the home owners in their fight for a moratorium on the foreclosure of mortgages.

He is a member of the Zoning Commission of Columbus, Ohio.

He is married and lives at 1820 Franklin-ave.

EDUCATION. I believe with Jefferson who when writing a friend said, "I look to the diffusion of light and education as the resource most to be relied on for ameliorating the condition, promoting the virtue, and advancing the happiness of man."

THE FREE COMMON SCHOOLS OF OHIO MUST BE MAINTAINED AT THE HIGHEST POINT OF EFFICIENCY, and as Jefferson said, "The People should be taxed upon the basis of their ability to pay to maintain public schools WITHOUT EXCEPTIONS IN ANY CLASS."

CONSERVATION. I am a confirmed believer in the policy of conserving our natural resources. The forests and the water of the state should be conserved so that drought conditions can be prevented or ameliorated. THE POLLUTION OF STREAMS SHOULD BE STOPPED IMMEDIATELY. The pollution of the Scioto River is a menace to the health, welfare and happiness of the communities bordering it and immediate steps should be taken to eliminate this outrageous condition.

TAXATION. The problem of taxation is momentous in this state. IMMEDIATE ACTION IS DEMANDED to prevent the closing of our free public schools and the defaulting on our public debts. It is probably necessary that some form of tax laws be enacted temporarily for temporary relief to take care of the emergency, to be displaced by a permanent tax law BASED UPON THE ABILITY TO PAY.

Too Many Teachers

EDUCATORS have no more cause for complaining about the surplus of teachers than members of other professions and trades have for lamenting a state of competition which has been ruinous to their incomes. Nor has the one group better cause than the other for demanding the curtailment of professional school enrollments. If the teachers think theirs is a special case it is because they are in the public pay, have been educated largely at the public's expense and would like to be considered privileged characters, as all of us do.

But would it be wise for the teachers' colleges, normal schools and other institutions for the production of school teachers to shut down either partially or wholly until the number of school jobs catches up with the number of persons to fill them, as advocated by some educators?

From the point of view of the teacher it is an excellent idea since it would mean jobs for all and better pay for many. But might it not lead to serious consequences? Unless carefully managed and even eventually accurately foreseen such a program would shortly lead to a serious shortage of teaching material and poorer schools.

Only through a surplus of teachers can the schools be sure of an adequate supply of good teachers. Not every boy or girl with a teacher's certificate is qualified to teach school but as long as there were enough jobs to go around all were assured of a school.

An educated man is one who can hear your Bible quotation tell what part of Shakespeare it came from.

Diminishing Returns

IN only seven of the 32 years since 1900 have postal receipts been greater than postal expenditures. The present economy program and recent rate increases were expected to turn the trick again, but the law of diminishing returns proved inviolable.

Congress was convinced by the postoffice department's claim that a one-cent increase in the letter rate and a few other postal rate boosts would place the postal service on a self-supporting basis.

Public business can no more boost prices during a price-cutting era than private business can. Millions of pieces of mail which formerly carried one or more two-cent stamps are now not going at all or are being delivered by messenger or sent as advertisements for a cent and a half. Business either couldn't carry the added burden or saw no reason for bending its back under it.

And if you make a better mouse-trap, solicitors for worthy causes will make a beaten path to your door.

Being a moron with a 12-year-old mind seems awful until you try to work a 12-year-old's arithmetic problems.

Another thing that puzzles us now is how wives stood in awe of their husbands during the night shirt era.

Americanism: Boasting of our one out of each six depending on government money.

"MA CINDERELLA" by Harold Bell Wright

SYNOPSIS

In the little village of Pine Knob, in the Ozarks, "Uncle Jimmy" Cartwright laboriously rides his mule towards Ann Haskel's house, speculating on the possibility of "refreshments," when he comes upon Diane Carol painting the landscape. Though born to wealth, Diane, like her late father, is indifferent to society. She is seriously interested in art and leading a useful life. Diane accepted a friend's invitation to visit Wilderness Club in the Ozarks upon learning that she could paint there and do just as she pleased. "Uncle Jimmy" and Diane take to each other instantly. He is surprised upon learning she is a New Yorker, to find her just like "home folks." As they talk, Ann Haskel, a typical backwoods character, appears on a big bay horse. The old mountaineer informs Diane that Ann practically runs that part of the country. Ann lives on a farm with her step-son, Jeff Todd, an "ornery cuss," and Nance Jordan, her housekeeper. Years ago, following the death of her first husband, Ed Haskel, Ann sent her young son, John Herbert, away. No one dared ask where or why, but they remembered it was about that time that Judge Shannon, a family friend, stopped visiting. Later, Ann married Jerry Todd who was killed by a revenue officer in a bootlegging raid. "The revenue officer was a quality as hard as tempered steel, with an indifference toward death which was startling."

CHAPTER IV.

There was something beneath Uncle Jimmy's simple words which caused Diane to look at the old mountaineer with a new interest. She had thought these people of the backwoods a poor, ignorant, spiritless folk—too shiftless and incompetent to do more than eke out a bare existence. And, in a way, she was right. But she glimpsed, now, another quality of the backwoods character. Beneath the apparent apathy there was a quality as hard as tempered steel, with an indifference toward death which was startling.

Casually she asked, "Were Ann Haskel's other husbands all killed by revenue men, too?"

"No. One died in a fight over on the head of Snake Creek; one war took natchal—some sort of a fever—nobody never rightly knowed just what 'twas; another one died while he war in prison fer stealing horses. Ed Haskel—John Herbert's paw—he let a tree fall on hissef."

"It's nice to know that most of Ann's husbands died violent deaths, isn't it?" murmured Diane. "One seems rather to expect it of them."

"Uh-huh—seem fer more natchal to 'em after livin' with Ann, I reckon."

"I suppose there are moonshine stills everywhere in these mountains," Diane remarked, tentatively. "There are so many wonderful places to hide them, and since prohibition the business must be good."

Uncle Jimmy looked at her shrewdly. "I reckon as how you'll at the Lodge ain't havin' no trouble gittin' all the hard licker you can drink, be you?"

"Not me, Uncle Jimmy," laughed Diane. "I don't happen to care fer hard liquor, myself. You are right, though, there seems to be even more than an abundance."

"An' why shouldn't thar be?" demanded Uncle Jimmy, belligerently. "If a body plants a patch of caww, 'tends hit an' the Lawd makes hit to grow fer him, hit's own cawn, ain't hit? If a body takes that cawn what's his'n to the mill on grindin'-day, an' the mill turns hit into cawwmeal, an' he makes cawn pone out hit, ain't he a right to eat hit an' thank Gawd-a-mighty fer his daily bread? Wal, supposin' a body takes his own cawn what the Lawd growed fer him, an' feeds hit to his haws, don't the Lawd turn that cawn into haww meat? Ain't nobody but Gawd-a-mighty could turn cawn into haww meat, I reckon. An' ain't that haww meat what the Lawd made outen that cawn, the man's own haww meat, when the cawn and the haww war his'n? Can't a man sell his own haww meat, or eat hit, or give hit to his neighbors, or throw hit to the dawgs if he wants? Can't a man do what he wants with what's his'n? I'd sure admire to know if he can't. An' I'd sure admire to see anybody try to tell him he couldn't. Wal, then, by G-e-e-rusalem-on-high! a body's got a right to take his own cawn what the Lawd growed fer him, an' let the Lawd turn hit into licker, same as if licker war cawn pone or haww meat. An' a body's got a right 'fore Gawd-a-mighty to do what he wants with his own licker. Ain't no law can stop a man doin' what he wants with his own; sich a law would be ag'in nature an' ag'in Gawd-a-mighty. Supposin' you war a Jew an' hit war ag'in your religion to eat haww meat; that wouldn't give you no right to make a law that a Methodist or a Baptist couldn't feed his own cawn to his own haws, an' do what he wanted with his own side-meat an' hams an' sich. This year's a free country yet—leastwise these haww parts air, an' hit's ag'in to keep on bein' free, too."

"Help!" cried Diane. When Uncle Jimmy did not even smile she added, gravely, "I'm not arguing with you, Uncle Jimmy."

"You'd best not," the old mountaineer retorted, grimly. "I sure do git het up 'bout sich things, an' when I'm real hot I'm some dangerous."

Diane felt that in his last statement, at least, Uncle Jimmy had spoken the literal truth.

"Mebbe you're a revenue yourself, fer al I know," the old man added. "You can't never tell."

Diane laughed merrily. "Oh, come now! You know you never heard of a woman revenue."

"That's wimmen everythin' else these days," he retorted, grimly. "They do say hit war the wimmen what made them fool licker laws, an' if they war fools enough to make 'em, why wouldn't they be fools enough to try an' make folks keep 'em? I've even heard tell of wimmen policemen, an' wimmen judges, an' sich, in the cities. I'd sure admire to see any woman try to hold court in this haww neck of the woods—less'n hit war Ann Haskel."

Miss eyes twinkled as he eyed Diane's costume. "I've seed plenty wimmen a-wearin' breeches, an' I've seed them Lodge wimmen a-wearin' not much of anything when they war swimmin' in the river—right with the menfolks, too. But, shucks! I know you couldn't be no revenue."

"Not with them eyes. You're too kind an' friendly-like to go snoopin' 'round makin' trouble fer poor folks what ain't only usin' what the Lawd gave 'em to use."

"Thank you, Uncle Jimmy. I promise not to make trouble for anyone. But tell me, are there really any stills in this neighborhood?"

"That sure is a purty picher you're a-paintin'," said Uncle Jimmy, thoughtfully.

Diane laughed. "I'm asking you about stills."

Gravely the old backwoodsman returned, "You got education. What do you say, now; is this haww old earth round or flat?"

"Why—why the earth is round, of course!"

"Uh-huh—I 'lowed you'd say that. What makes you think she's round?"

Diane offered the usual evidence. "Uh-huh, I reckon that's what the books say, an' hit sounds that a way. The earth ain't round, she's flat. She jest natchally can't be round, an' what's more I can prove by the Bible she ain't round."

"Oh, of course, if you can prove it by the Bible—"

"Wal, I sure can. Don't hit tell in the Bible 'bout the four angels a-standin' on the four corners of the earth? Any dad-burned fool would know they couldn't do that if hit war round."

With this Uncle Jimmy arose to his feet and with a caww by climb- ing into the saddle. With a preliminary jerk or two of the rope reins, and a vigorous thump of his heels which Ahab received with melancholy indifference, he said:

"Me an' the old woman would be mighty proud fer you to come an' see us, Diane. Thar's a heap of pitchers on Shady Creek that's been a long time waitin' fer somebody to paint 'em. I know they're thar right enough—all the different greens, the dark pines, the hillside rocks, the boulders in the creek, the dancin' shinin' water, the smutatches, an' shadders—oh, I been a-seein' 'em all my days but I ain't never before seed nobody what could write 'em down with them little brushes an' paints like you can."

"Oh, thank you, Uncle Jimmy. I should love to. I just follow the trail, do I?"

"Jest foller the trail, hit ain't more'n a mile from the Lodge."

When with reins and heels he had at last aroused Ahab to such interest that the mule seemed actually on the point of moving, Uncle Jimmie leaned down from the saddle for a last low-spoken word:

"If I war you, honey, I wouldn't be askin' too many questions 'round these parts. Folks what don't know you like I do mightn't understand. Ann Haskel she's jest p'sen on any body what asks questions. An' Ann don't take a likin' to a body hit ain't so easy to git along in this haww neighborhood as for a Jew, Ahab. Go long. Body'd think you war aimin' to stay haww a-pesterin' Diane all day."

During the days which followed, as she worked on her picture near the Haskel place, Diane often looked with speculative interest toward the big log house. She had felt that beneath the surface of Uncle Jimmy's talk strange things were hidden. What did it all mean? Why had Ann Haskel sent her boy out of her life so completely? What had become of young John Herbert—the last of the Haskels? How had he lived? What sort of man had he grown up to be—had he lived to grow up at all? What secrets were shared by Ann and her companion, Nance Jordan? Judge Shannon, who used to come into the mountain wilderness to hunt, but who came no more after the death of little John Herbert's father—where did he fit into the picture? What went on in the wild seclusion of those wooded hills so far from the thickly settled communities where representatives of the law stood on almost every corner and patrolled every road and street? A multitude of secret interests—an army of easily concealed but concealed in those lonely gulches and caves on the many hidden creeks and branches, and in the tiny obscure valley which were to be reached only by those who knew the scarcely visible trails. She felt something mysterious and furtive lurking in the forest about her, as one in a dark room might feel a sinister presence. Wary eyes seemed to be watching her from the leafy screen of trees and bushes. And every day she glimpsed in the forest—now here, now there—the strange woman on the big bay horse.

Had Diane Carol been given to indulging in nerves she would have fled as from a plague-stricken district. But, being Diane Carol, she went calmly about her work and, in spite of the old mountaineer's friendly warning, asked questions.

They told her at the Lodge that Ann Haskel war a terrible creature—fearless, suspicious, cruel. They said that she was never known to smile or laugh. They described how she handled an ax or a gun like a man. They related how she ruled over the countryside like a feudal chief, and asserted that in backwoods politics she was the final word and that no man could be elected or appointed to any office without her permission. They told how more than one newcomer in the neighborhood, failing to win her approval, had been forced to pack hurriedly and move on to other parts.

Pappy Giles, who kept the Pine Knob store and post-office, when Diane tactfully mentioned Ann Haskel, related incidents which revealed another side of the mountain woman's character.

"Uncle Jimmy Cartwright 'lows you're hon'fuls," Pappy said, as if to justify himself in talking to an outsider about forbidden things. "I've tuck notice mysef that you ain't so uppity as them others at the Lodge when they come sometimes like you do fer their mail."

"Eight years ago, 'come next fall,' Pappy's done with a misery in his back, so bad he couldn't stand on his feet. Ma Giles was a helpless invalid. The poor old couple were in desperate straits. They were living, then, away over on the head of Lonesome, with no neighbors nearer than six miles."

"Things got so bad there was nothin' in the cabin to eat for two days, and no way to go or send for help. Then, who should come riding out of the brush but Ann Haskel, and the big bay horse was carrying not only his mistress, but a whole side of meat, a sack of corn meal, a sack of white flour, and 'a heap of other fixings'—saters and sugar and tea and coffee and tobacco and liniments."

"Thar's them what thinks Ann Haskel's a devil," said Pappy, thoughtfully. "An' I reckon as how thar's been times when a body might have reasons fer sich thoughts, but I'm a-tellin' you, miss, that thar war one time when she looked to Maw an' me more like an angel."

THE HERALD SALESMANSHIP CLUB - Circleville, Ohio

MECCA OUSTS ESHELMAN '9'

Driving out four runs in the first frame and eight in the fourth, the Eschelman Feeds from any chance Mecca restaurant eliminated the Eschelman Feeds from any chance at the second half title Wednesday evening by a 14 to 8 total. The game was free hitting from start to finish with the Mecca bombardment with Red Owens finishing the game, while George Vlerbome was the Mecca moundman.

Scheduled to play the Purina Chows next week, the last of the second half, the Mecca is almost certain of a tie for the top birth. If the Given Oils should defeat the Circleville Oils, the Mecca would win the second half title without a play-off.

CATCH FEATURES

A feature of the Wednesday-evening game was a one handed catch of Hickey's liner by Tomilson, playing shortstop for the Feeds.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep... Vigor... Vitality

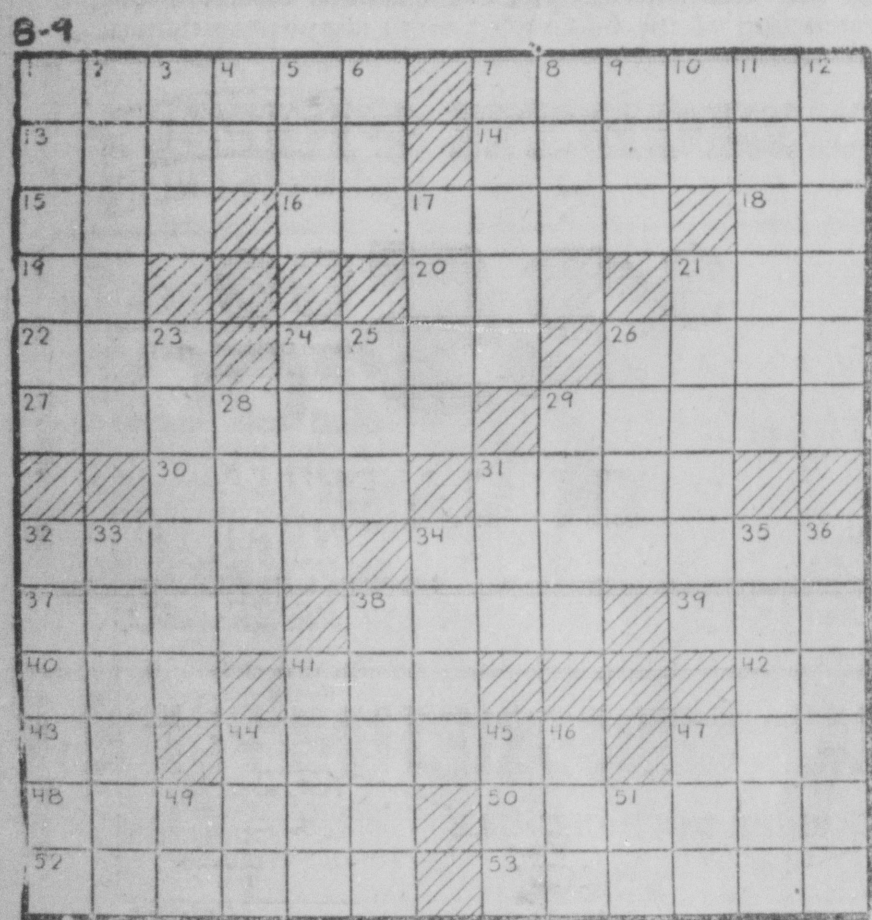

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging headache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness. If kidneys do not empty 3 times every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS... a doctor's prescription... which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes, for they may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS... the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

'UNCLE ROBBY' DIES IN SOUTH

Wilbert Robinson, Former Brooklyn Baseball Manager, Has Stroke.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 9.—The baseball world mourned another of its old guard today.

Wilbert Robinson, 72, known familiarly as "Uncle Robby," veteran former manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and lately president and general manager of the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern association, died last night in Piedmont hospital here.

Robby was stricken at his home with a cerebral hemorrhage and was rushed to the hospital shortly after 8 o'clock. It was thought that he had merely broken his arm when he collapsed and he was at first treated for this. It was not until some time later that it was discovered he had suffered a stroke. He died about two hours after entering the institution.

Robinson's famous wife, known throughout the big leagues as 'Ma' Robinson, was at his bedside when the end came.

DIZZY WINS 21

CINCINNATI, Aug. 9.—The Cincinnati Reds, a victim twice in two days to Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, had an off day today. They will leave for Pittsburgh tonight to start a five game series tomorrow with the Pirates.

Dizzy won his second game in two days yesterday for the St. Louis Cardinals, giving him his twenty-first victory of the season. The Cards crushed the Reds with a six-run rally in the twelfth, winning 10 to 4.

Dizzy Dean went in the game after Paul, the junior member of the team of Dean and Dean, permitted the Reds to tie the score.

GRIMES BECOMES PIRATE 3rd TIME

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 9.—Burleigh Grimes, veteran spitball artist of the major leagues, wore a Pittsburgh Pirates uniform for the third time today.

Grimes, given his unconditional release by the New York Yankees, signed his third Pirate contract yesterday and shortly thereafter went to work as a relief pitcher against the Chicago Cubs.

Manager Pie Traynor hopes the veteran hurler will be valuable in bolstering his weak pitching staff.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

THE PICKAWAY COUNTRY club golf tournament for the club championship is showing little progress—Only a few golfers who might have a chance at the club title have turned in their score cards after qualifying rounds. * * *

The Second Guesser has one suggestion to make that, it is believed, would help create interest in the championship tournament. * * * OFFER SOME PRIZE TO THE WINNER WORTH STRIVING FOR. * * *

As it now stands the championship does not mean a thing—There isn't even a cup on which the winner's name can be engraved. * * * It seems that a club championship is of much more importance to the welfare of the golfing interests than a Memorial Day, Independence Day or Labor Day tournament, yet there are prizes for the winners of these meets and not for the club champion. * * *

The shuffleboard court has been refined and progress is being made toward a club tournament—Teams of two are sought but if enough teams are not entered it is planned to pair up shuffleboarders to get the tourney going. * * *

Larruping Lou Riggs failed in the clutch, Wednesday, and the Red Birds lost to the Milwaukee Brewers—With Columbus trailing by one run in the last of the ninth, on base and two out, Riggs grounded out for the third out. * * *

Bud Teachout was the losing pitcher. * * *

THOM IS VICTOR

Thom defeated Rattan in 42 minutes in the main bout of a benefit ice fund program here last night.

Jack Zarna of Springfield pinned Cleve Welch of Cleveland to win the first match; Joe Banaski and Stanley West wrestled to a draw; Ernie Heffner and Karl Davis drew; and Marion Mynter won from Cleve Kauffman.

Rehearsing Record

LONDON—What is probably an international record for rehearsing was hung up by the London Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham. To attain perfection before making a phonograph recording of Bizet's "Fair Maid of Perth," there were 45 rehearsals extending over a period of two years.

defied the old Labor Board when it sought to adjudicate a collective-bargaining dispute. The company was charged with specific violation of Section 7a. The old Board took the rebuff meekly. But not young Lloyd Garrison and his colleagues. When the case reached them, they ordered a new hearing. The company again defied the new Board. Whereupon the hard-hitting trio sucked back. Within three days they cited the company to the NRA as a law violator, and, with a withering blast condemning the bus line's attitude, recommended that its Blue Eagle be jerked. And as a warning to other firms, the three Commissioners issued this ultimatum: "This Board will not be used as an instrument for destroying by delay the rights which it was created to protect."

Among Republican Senatorial leaders the silence greeting the efforts of Henry Prather Fletcher as Chairman of the Republican National Committee is so thick it can be cut with a butter-knife.

The swanky Pennsylvania drew no cheers from the Capitol Hill boys when he was named party manager, and since taking to the stump they think even less of him.

In an exchange of communication the Senatorial chieftains have agreed that Fletcher should be tactfully, but unmistakably, advised that his rhetoric is hitting on a sour note.

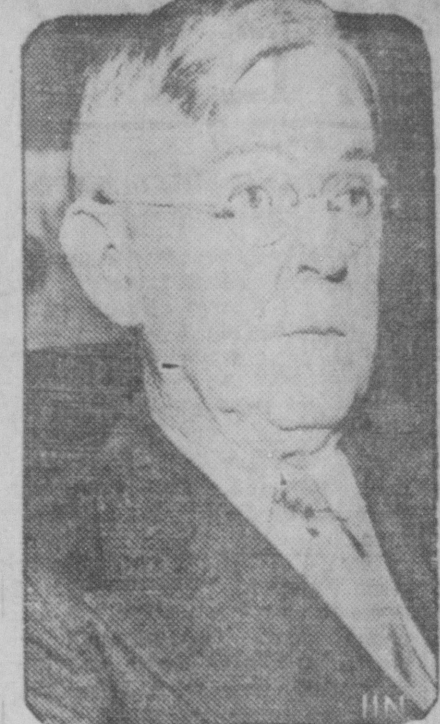

This will be done very shortly by a Senator noted for his deftness in handling delicate situations.

Dick Scarlet Fever
Toxin, Controlled by Chicago Foundation

WASHINGTON—The story published in this column July 25 regarding the development of a new serum in the fight against scarlet fever has aroused considerable discussion and some criticism in medical circles.

The article, based upon information received at the National Health Institute, stated that the Public Health Service had discovered a toxoid which produced immunity against scarlet fever in 82 per cent of 1,100 cases tested, that this treatment was based on the patent of scarlet fever toxin held by Doctors George and Gladys Dick, of Chicago, that the Dicks had refused to turn this patent over to the Government, that Dr. George Dick had indicated his willingness to give this discovery to science, but that his wife, Dr. Gladys Dick, declined, and that as a result the scarlet fever range continued to be high.

Several notable physicians challenge these facts. In order to clarify the situation it should be stated that control of the Dick patent is vested in a foundation known as the Scarlet Fever Committee, with headquarters in Chicago. This committee has not confirmed the laboratory experiments of the United States Public Health Service.

Furthermore, the Dicks in their own investigations find that the toxoid prepared by workers of the Public Health Service is not really a toxoid, that it contains sixteen times as much unaltered toxin as originally claimed, that the product immunized only forty per cent instead of 87 per cent, and that altogether satisfactory evidence of the existence of scarlet fever toxoid is lacking.

For this reason, the Scarlet Fever Committee felt that the time was not ripe to license any products to be sold under the name of Scarlet Fever Toxoid.

The Doctors Dick were the recipients of the Cameron Prize in England and Scotland last year for their notable contribution to the fight against scarlet fever, and they are in line for the Nobel Prize in the near future. The importance of their contribution to science cannot be over-emphasized and any reflection upon it is to be regretted.

Hookey

Dynamic David E. Lillenthal, Director of TVA, took a couple of hours off the other afternoon for a round of golf with a friend.

As they made their way over the fairway they saw ahead of them a lone player who seemed to be having a hard time with his game. He hooked, sliced, dug up divots, missed the ball completely.

When they finally caught up with him Lillenthal recognized the lone player as a minor TVA executive—who was supposed to be at his desk. When he saw his boss he looked extremely embarrassed.

"I'm playing hookey this afternoon," he explained.

"So that is what it is," laughed Lillenthal. "We could see very clearly it wasn't golf."

Tough Guys

The new National Labor Relations Board is giving every indication of becoming the "tough guy" of the Administration.

It is not saying much. But it is doing plenty of cracking down. Although it has been in operation only a month, it already has cited more cases to the NRA Compliance Division for punitive action than did the old Board in its ten months of existence.

Under the law the NLRB does not have the power to proceed legally against defiant or recalcitrant employers. It is up to the Blue Eagle to do that.

But Chairman Lloyd Garrison and his two colleagues are intent on keeping the NRA busy.

They have wielded the big stick on obdurate concerns and minced neither words nor blows.

Take for instance, the Board's bare-knuckle handling of the controversy with the Chicago Motor Coach Co.

Operating a large system of bus lines within the city of Chicago.

FATE OF TWO WOMEN HANGING IN BALANCE

Jury Deliberates Coshocton Poison Case; Session Long One

MRS. ANTONIO READY

Governor's Action Last Chance of Mother

By International News Service

The fate of two mothers was in the balance today as a jury deliberated in one state and a governor studied final pleas in another state. Mrs. Amelia Webb Wardrop, 43, who stands accused in the "poison" murders of her son and daughter, was awaiting the report of a jury in Coshocton common pleas court. No inkling when the jury would report was available at noon.

In New York state, Mrs. Anna Antonio, mother of three small children, was preparing for the fourth time for death in the electric chair with Governor Lehman's mercy her only hope. Mrs. Antonio is scheduled to die tonight.

TRIAL 14 DAYS

COSHOCKTON, Aug. 9.—The fate of Mrs. Amelia Webb Wardrop, 43-year-old mother who stands accused of the "rat poison" slayings of her two children, today was in the hands of the jury of 12 men who heard her sensational 14-day trial at which the state demanded the electric chair for the woman.

The jury was given the case late yesterday afternoon after the court instructed it to return one of three verdicts—guilty without recommendation of mercy, guilty with a recommendation of mercy, or not guilty.

OSHING, N. Y., Aug. 9.—For the fourth time, Mrs. Anna Antonio, convicted husband and mother of three children, prepared to die today.

Three other times there had been last-minute reprieves but now there seemed no hope.

The electric chair waited around the corner—fourteen short steps from the death cell where the doomed woman sat listlessly on her cot.

REFUSED 3 TIMES

The governor is the only one who may stay her trudge to the death chamber at 11 o'clock tonight. Three times the higher courts have ruled against her plea for a new trial.

"It looks as if they've all turned me down," Mrs. Antonio told the matron. "God alone can help me. I am not thinking of myself, so much, I am thinking of what it will mean to the future of my children."

"Nobody can know how terrible it is to be in here except someone who has gone through it."

New Deal Stays Says Roosevelt

GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 9.—President Roosevelt came into the politically turbulent and progressive state today with a message that the "New Deal" is here to stay—and that there will be no return to "Old Deal."

Confidence, he said, is returning to every legitimate line of business. Those who lack that confidence, he asserted, are those who profited unjustly under the old order, "the old law of the tooth and claw."

"This government intends no injury to honest business," he said. "The processes we follow in seeking social justice do not in adding to general prosperity take from one and give to another. In the modern world, the spreading out

Not Sighted from Time They Left Canada, Until Reaching Shore

FAR SHORT OF GOAL

Were Trying to Win Long Distance Mark

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The transatlantic airplane attempting a non-stop flight from Toronto to Bagdad landed at Hexton air-drome near London at 6 o'clock this evening, twelve o'clock, Eastern Standard time, according to the Evening Standard.

The fliers, James Ayling and Leonard Reid, had left Toronto yesterday intent on establishing a new long distance flight record. They had not been reported sighted until they landed today.

Every passenger ship and freighter and all radio equipped fishing boats and smaller craft had been instructed to be on the lookout for their plane, "The Trail of the Caribou."

WEATHER GOOD

The air ministry after making a special weather survey for International News Service reported that the fliers would experience exceptionally favorable weather conditions when they came within 800 miles of the Irish coast.

In this area they would have a 30 mile wind on their tail and be able to make remarkable speed over the British Isles to the continent.

However, the air ministry pointed out, between Newfoundland and that point they must have experienced considerable low clouds and rain necessitating blind flying, the bane of transoceanic flyers.

The fliers, who had practically no long distance flight experience, were seeking to better the record made last year by Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi when they flew from New York to Rayak Syria, a distance of 5,657 miles. The distance from their starting point to Bagdad is approximately 6,300 miles.

Centennial of Religious Paper Observed as U. B. Meets Here Sept. 4 to 9

It may not be known to many residents of Circleville that one of the oldest religious newspapers now printed in the United States was first published in this city but such is the fact. "The Religious Telescope," official organ of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ, had its beginning in Circleville in 1834 and is one of the two or three denominational church papers that have had continuous existence for a century.

At a general conference of the United Brethren church which assembled at the Dresden church in Pickaway-co, May 14, 1833, it was resolved "to establish a religious paper devoted to religious, moral and literary intelligence."

"On the twelfth of April, 1834, the trustees bought at public sale, in the town of Circleville, a printing press together with the sum of $455, and on the thirtieth of May, 1834, they bought a lot and two houses in Circleville from Z. R. Martin, Esq., for which they paid $550. On the tenth of November following they purchased two fonts of type from William R. Rinehart for which they agreed to pay $325."

SCHOOL FUNDS GO INTO MAIL; TO HELP MANY

Checks For Over $20,000 Received; City To Obtain $5,929.60

Circleville and Pickaway-co schools, Thursday, were assured of enough money to open their doors in September as the state of Ohio poured more than $20,000 into township and district school funds in the annual distribution of intangible tax receipts.

A check for $20,455.72 was received by the county auditor's office today, and T. D. Krihn, deputy auditor, was preparing to distribute the proper sums to the various schools in the county.

The aggregate average daily attendance of school pupils in Pickaway-co in 1933-34 was 5,267.

CITY GETS $5,929.60

Circleville district schools receive more than one-fifth of the total amount of the check or $5,929.60, the report shows.

Other sums were allotted to the townships and districts as follows: Darby-twp, $1,079.52; Deer-creek-twp, $1,230.96; Harrison, $570.83; Jackson, $897.01; Madison, $477.63; Monroe, $943.61; Muhlenberg, $582.48; Perry, $621.31; Pickaway, $1,176.60; Salt-creek, $772.75.

HITLER FREES 8,000 TODAY

Political and Criminal Prisoners Liberated; Trouble Continuing.

By International News Service. Reichsleiter Hitler ordered the release of between 8,000 and 10,000 political and criminal prisoners in German jails and concentration camps in a decree issued today in memory of the late President Von Hindenburg. Many Jews will be freed.

At the same time it became known that eight persons were arrested yesterday in a reported conspiracy to assassinate Victor Lutze, new leader of the Nazi storm troops, who replaced Capt. Ernst Roehm, executed for his part in the June 30 plot.

Nazi party leaders and regular army officers of the Reichswehr looked on with approval at the arrest of a deputy to assist Hitler, the Nazis urging Gen. Goering and the army War Minister Von Blomberg.

You can do it—if you write the best letter to Ad Carter, the famous cartoonist who draws "Just Kids," the daily comic strip you read every day in The Herald.

As you all know, right now in "Just Kids" a strange thing has happened. Mush Stebbins has given $100 to the contest, or what he is supposed to do with it. Well, what Ad Carter wants to know is what you boys and girls would do if the money was yours. He wants you to write him a letter on the subject "WHAT I WOULD DO WITH $100," and for the best letters, he will give the following prizes:

1st Prize $50
2nd Prize 25
3rd Prize 15
4th Prize 10
5 Prizes of $5 each
75 Prizes of $1 each

It's easy, providing you do a little thinking. Just suppose you had $100 and could do what you pleased with it. Would you put it in the bank? or would you spend it, and if so what things would you buy? or would you give it to charity? Then write your letter to Ad Carter, telling him your ideas and why you think they are a good way to use $100.

The rules are simple: All boys and girls under the age of 16 may send a letter. Write your letter only on one side of the paper. Send the letter to Ad Carter, in care of this newspaper.

It is understood that (1) anyone sending a letter agrees to accept Ad Carter's decision in the prize awards; (2) in case of a tie, both letters will be awarded the full prize; (3) a letter will be returned.

Don't forget, there are $4 cash prizes all together, and you can win one with a good letter. So get busy now.

RELIEF FROM TORRID WAVE ON WAY EAST

Report Cool Air Pouring Into Central States From Canada

STRIKES 99 HERE

Heat Pushes Grain Prices Much Higher

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The drought-ridden midcontinent again sweetening in a record-breaking heat wave, today awaited promised relief from temperatures that topped the 100 degree mark to reach a peak of 114 degrees.

From the Canadian northwest and Alaska a mass of cool air was moving into the central states today with a high pressure area that promised two days of relief from the torrid blast.

W. P. Day, government forecaster, predicted lower temperatures for Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Indiana, Michigan and part of Kansas.

Winds off Lake Michigan brought relief to Chicago's sweltering millions after the mercury rose to an official reading of 100 degrees, a new record for August 8. The temperature here declined to the upper 70's during the night.

GRAIN PRICES CLIMB

All known heat records were surpassed in Iowa when the mercury climbed to 114 degrees at Ottumwa, Missouri and Kansas reported official readings of 108 degrees. In Nebraska and the Dakotas temperatures ranged above the 100 degree mark.

An all-time record was established at Springfield, Ill., with an official reading of 107.5. At Quincy, Ill., where a new August heat record was set at 110 degrees, one death and four prostrations resulted. Two died at Pana, Ill.

Forecasters predicted rainfall today in the Great Lakes region, Iowa, Missouri and Ohio. Rains have fallen in North Dakota and Minnesota in the van of the approaching high pressure area.

Territorial rains fell in the arid region of Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Drought conditions are extremely bad from the Rock mountains eastward to the Mississippi river, the weather bureau here reported.

LAKE SINKING

Rivers, streams and even the Great Lakes have sunk to new low levels, threatening the water supplies of many communities. Lakes Huron and Michigan averaged 578.06 feet above sea level during July 46 below the previous July peak set in 1926.

Mayor William Fielder took immediate steps to conserve the water supply of Logansport, Ind., where a water shortage threatens.

MEET CANNING PLAN STUDIED IN STATE

COLUMBUS, Aug. 9.—Notified officially that the federal government would ship between 200,000 and 375,000 bushels of drought-stricken Ohio during the next six months, the state relief commission today announced detailed plans for a meat-canning program designed to provide employment for 3,000 needy Ohioans.

ate Of Truck Strike In Doubt

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 2.—A spotlight in the Minneapolis truck drivers strike shifted today to a federal court.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson was scheduled to appear to combat the injunction proceedings of employers striking truck drivers who claimed that martial law be declared. They claim that presence of the troops is interfering with their legitimate business and the free use of the streets.

The governor, on the other hand, instituted martial law to "restore law and order."

It virtually has stopped picketing and violence and he sees no reason why it should not be continued.

Upon the outcome of today's court action rests the future of the strike, in the opinion of observers. If the court sustains the government, some persons foresee a quick end of the strike with the employers forced to restore normal business under the terms of the federal mediators' peace plan which involves concessions to the strikers on their part.

However, if the court holds with the employers and decides that the government. They see in the government interest in using troops to suppress civil authorities, picketing probably will be resumed.

It is almost certain that picketing would bring violence. Some observers believe the employers might import strike breakers who would attempt to operate trucks under escort of Minneapolis police. Employers are chafing under the rigid restrictions laid down by the governor. They see in the governor's action a deliberate plan to force them to capitulate to the strikers.

Only firms that agree to abide by the peace proposal of the federal mediators, Father Francis J. Haas and E. H. Dunigan, are being granted military permits to operate trucks.

MANY AGREEING
Many small concerns—those outside the group of 166 firms comprising the employers' advisory committee—are falling into line and agreeing to the terms of the Haas-Dunigan plan. Trucks of such concerns are operating while trucks of the larger employers remain idle.

"Congressman Underwood Picked to Win in Six-Cornered Race"

Reports from all five counties of the 11th District indicate that Congressman Mell G. Underwood is still a strong favorite with the Democratic voters of the District and will again be selected as their candidate for Congress in the primaries next week. Political observers say that Underwood will receive more votes than all of his five opponents combined.

Underwood has always been a strong candidate, popular alike with Democrats and Republicans. In the general election two years ago, he swept all five counties by a two to one vote with the following majorities: Perry (Underwood's home county, normally 2,000 Republican) by a majority of 4,006; Fairfield by 5,658; Ross by 2,870; Pickaway by 3,060 and Hocking County by a 2,711 majority. Underwood's total majority in the District was 18,305 votes; the largest ever received by any candidate for Congress. In the preceding election he carried all five counties with a majority of approximately 17,000.

Mell G. Underwood has made one of the best Congressmen the 11th District has ever had. A vote for Underwood is a vote for able, honest, efficient and courteous service to all the people all the time.

Republican politicians are trying to defeat Underwood in the primaries, because they know that if the Democrats select him, they will again elect a Democratic Congressman. The Democratic voters of this District will not be deceived by eleventh hour propaganda and falsehoods against a loyal and faithful public servant.

We need Underwood in Congress. Vote for him and ask your friends to do likewise. He will be grateful for your help and a kind word in his behalf.

Underwood Plans to Probe Complaints on Corn & Hog Reduction

Several Pickaway-co farmers who signed contracts with the federal government in the corn-hog reduction program, complained to Congressman Mell G. Underwood, of New Lexington, while he was in the city Wednesday, about the administration of the program here.

The complaints, the congressman said, centered around the flat two per cent cuts which were made in this county after contracts had been signed. It was explained at the farm bureau that such action was necessary as it was discovered that the county's quota remained too high after contracts were signed.

"I expect to investigate the facts and lay the entire matter before Secretary of Agriculture Wallace when I return to Washington next week," the congressman declared.

There were only a few objections to the two per cent cuts after it was found it would be necessary, it was said at the farm bureau today.

To the Voters of Pickaway County:

Due to the impossibility of seeing every voter personally before the Primary election, because of the fact that my office demands constant attention, I desire to issue the following statement to all the voters of Pickaway-co:

During my term of office as Sheriff of Pickaway County I have conscientiously endeavored to give the people of this county an efficient, honest and economical administration. I have attempted to aid the taxpayers by operating the office economically as possible. In feeding the prisoners I have used nothing but Pickaway County goods whenever possible.

No major crime committed during my administration remains unsolved. Through the efficiency of my deputies, evidence against various criminals has been so strong that in the greatest majority of the cases they have pleaded guilty, thereby saving the county much in court costs, jury fees and witness fees.

I have made every effort to treat all persons alike in enforcing the laws of this State, and to cooperate successfully with all city, county and state officials.

I rely entirely upon the record of my administration as an enforcer of the law, and your support will be greatly appreciated.

Respectfully,

CHARLES H. RADCLIFF

Summary of Peter Albietz

Peter Albietz was educated in the public schools of Cincinnati, Ohio, later graduated from the East Evening High School of the same city and later enrolled in the Y. M. C. A. law school of said city.

He is a Spanish-American War veteran and was formerly Sergeant in E Company, First United States Infantry. His war record includes service in Cuba and during the insurrection in the Philippines.

He came to Columbus twenty-two years ago to serve under the Auditor of State, Vic Donahy, as State Examiner and later as State Tax Deputy, and has been a resident of the 10th District for the past twenty-one years.

He later served under Governor Cox in the State Securities Department and during part of his service in that department was supervisor of small loan companies.

Last year he led the fight before the present General Assembly to protect the home owners in their fight for a moratorium on the foreclosure of mortgages.

He is a member of the Zoning Commission of Columbus, Ohio.

He is married and lives at 1320 Franklin-ave.

EDUCATION. I believe with Jefferson who when writing a friend said, "I look to the diffusion of light and education as the resource most to be relied on for ameliorating the condition, promoting the virtue, and advancing the happiness of man."

THE FREE COMMON SCHOOLS OF OHIO MUST BE MAINTAINED AT THE HIGHEST POINT OF EFFICIENCY, and as Jefferson said, "The People should be taxed upon the basis of their ability to pay to maintain public schools WITHOUT EXCEPTIONS IN ANY CLASS."

CONSERVATION. I am a confirmed believer in the policy of conserving our natural resources. The forests and the water of the state should be conserved so that drought conditions can be prevented or ameliorated. THE POLLUTION OF STREAMS SHOULD BE STOPPED IMMEDIATELY. The pollution of the Scioto River is a menace to the health, welfare and happiness of the communities bordering it and immediate steps should be taken to eliminate this outrageous condition.

TAXATION. The problem of taxation is momentous in this state. IMMEDIATE ACTION IS DEMANDED to prevent the closing of our free public schools and the defaulting on our public debts. It is probably necessary that some form of tax laws be enacted temporarily for temporary relief to take care of the emergency, to be displaced by a permanent tax law BASED UPON THE ABILITY TO PAY.

$3000 Profit On Investment

Our Loan No. 18-8444 makes pipe-fittings for plumbers and over a period of years has built up a good business. Due to the general slump his book-accounts increased, and just when his cash was at low ebb he was offered a $1000 stock of material for $1000 cash. He had heard of The City Loan—was skeptical—but couldn't borrow the money elsewhere so decided to give it a trial. He paid that loan in full and has had two similar loans since. Today he is so "sold" on The City Loan that he recommends its service to all his friends.

The City Loan will loan you the money to take advantage of any opportunity that looks like a money maker to you. Try it!

Too Many Teachers

EDUCATORS have no more
cause for complaining about
the surplus of teachers than members of other professions and trades have for lamenting a state of competition which has been ruinous to their incomes. Nor has the one group better cause than the other for demanding the curtailment of professional school enrollments. If the teachers think theirs is a special case it is because they are in the public pay, have been educated largely at the public's expense and would like to be considered privileged characters, as all of us do.

But would it be wise for the teachers' colleges, normal schools
and other institutions for the production of school teachers to shut down either partially or wholly until the number of school jobs
catches up with the number of persons to fill them, as advocated
by some educators?

From the point of view of the teacher it is an excellent idea since
it would mean jobs for all and better pay for many. But might it not lead to serious consequences?
Unless carefully managed and even eventually accurately foreseen such a program would shortly
lead to a serious shortage of teaching material and poorer schools.

Only through a surplus of teachers can the schools be sure of an adequate supply of good teachers.
Not every boy or girl with a teacher's certificate is qualified to teach school but as long as there were enough jobs to go around all were assured of a school.

An educated man is one who can hear your Bible quotation
tell what part of Shakespeare
it came from.

Diminishing Returns

Only seven of the 32 years
since 1900 have postal receipts
been greater than postal expenditures. The present economy program and recent rate increases
were expected to turn the trick
again, but the law of diminishing
returns proved inviolable.

Congress was convinced by the postoffice department's claim that a one-cent increase in the letter
rate and a few other postal rate
boosts would place the postal service on a self-supporting basis.

Public business can no more boost prices during a price-cutting era than private business can. Millions of pieces of mail which formerly carried one or more two-cent stamps are now not going at all or
are being delivered by messenger
or sent as advertisements for a cent and a half. Business either couldn't carry the added burden or saw no reason for bending its back under it.

And if you make a better mouse-
trap, solicitors for worthy causes
will make a beaten path to your door.

Being a moron with a 12-year-old mind seems awful until you try to work a 12-year-old's arithmetic
problems.

Another thing that puzzles us
now is how wives stood in awe of their husbands during the night
shirt era.

Americanism: Boasting of our government money.

Don't cuss the kid if he throws
money away without thought for tomorrow. He has the chief trait
of a baseball or movie star.

"MA CINDERELLA"
by Harold Bell Wright

SYNOPSIS

In the little village of Pine Knob,
in the Ozarks, "Uncle Jimmie" Cartwright laboriously rides his mule toward Ann Haskel's house,
speculating on the possibility of "refreshments," when he comes upon Diane Carroll painting the landscape. Though born to wealth, Diane, like her late father, is indifferent to society. She is seriously interested in art and leading a useful life. Diane accepted a friend's invitation to visit Wilderness Club in the Ozarks upon learning that she could paint there and
do just as she pleased. "Uncle Jimmie" and Diane take to each other instantly. He is surprised upon learning she is a New Yorker,
to find her just like "home folks."
As they talk, Ann Haskel, a typical backwoods character, appears on a big bay horse. The old mountaineer informs Diane that Ann practically runs that part of the country. Ann lives on a farm with her stepson, Jeff Todd, an "ornery cuss," and Nance Jordan, her housekeeper.
Years ago, following the death of her first husband, Ed Haskel, Ann
sent her young son, John Herbert, away. No one dared ask where or why, but they remembered it was about that time that Judge Shannon, a family friend, stopped visiting. Later, Ann married Jerry Todd who was killed by a runaway officer
in a bootlegging raid. "The revener he never told nobody what he knewed; he didn't live long enough," said "Uncle Jimmie".

CHAPTER IV.

There was something beneath Uncle Jimmie's simple words which caused Diane to look at the old mountaineer with a new interest.
She had thought these people of the backwoods—poor, ignorant, spiri-
tless folk—too shiftless and incompetent to do more than eke out a bare existence. And, in a way, she was right. But she glimpsed now, another quality of the backwoods character. Beneath the apparent apathy there was a quality as hard
as tempered steel, with an indifference toward death which was startling.

Casually she asked, "Were Ann Haskel's other husbands all killed
by revenuers, too?"

"No. One died in a fight over on the head of Snake Creek; one war
took natchal—some sort of a fever
—nobody never rightly knowed jest
what 'twas; another one died while he war in prison fer stealin' horses.
Ed Haskel—John Herbert's paw—he let a tree fall on hisself."

"It's nice to know that most of Ann's husbands died violent deaths,
—natchal!" murmured Diane. "One seems rather to expect it of them."
"Uh-huh—seemed more natchal
to 'em after livin' with Ann, I reckon."

"I suppose there are moonshine
still everywhere in these mountains?" Diane remarked. "Tentatively, 'There are so many wonderful places to hide them, and since prohibition the business must be good."

"Uncle Jimmie looked at her shrewdly. "I reckon as how you all
at the Lodge ain't havin' no trouble
gittin' all the hard licker you can drink, be you?"

"Not me, Uncle Jimmie," laughed Diane. "I don't happen to care for hard liquor, myself. You are right,
though, there seems to be even more than an abundance."

"An' why shouldn't thar be?" demanded Uncle Jimmie, belligerently.
"If a body plants a patch of corn, an' tends hit an' the Lawd
makes hit grow, an' fit's his own cawn, ain't hit? If a body takes that cawn what's his'n to the mill
on grindin'-day, an' the mill turns hit into cawmell, an' he makes cawn pone outen hit, ain't he the right to eat hit an' thank Gawd-a-mighty
for his daily bread? Wal, suppose a body takes his own cawn, an' the Lawd grows fer him, an' feeds
hit to his haws, don't the Lawd
turn that cawn inter hawg meat?
Ain't nobody but Gawd-a-mighty that turn cawn into hawg meat, I reckon. An' ain't that what the Lawd made outen that cawn, the man's own hawg meat when the cawn and the hawg war
his'n? Can't a man sell his own hawg meat, or eat hit, or give hit
to his neighbors, or throw hit to the dawgs if he wants? Can't a man
do what he wants with what's his'n?
I'd sure admire to know if he can't.
An' I'd sure admire to see anybody
try to tell him he couldn't. Wal, then, by G-e-rusalem-on-high a body's got a right to take his own
cawn what the Lawd grewed fer
him, an' let the Lawd turn hit
into licker, same as if licker war cawn pone or hawg meat. An' a body's got a right 'fore Gawd-a-mighty to do what he wants with his own licker. Ain't no law can stop a man doin' what he wants

with his own; sich a law would be agin' nature an' agin' Gawd-a-mighty. Supposin' you war a Jew
an' hit war agin' your religion to eat hawg meat; that wouldn't give you no right to make a law that a Methodist or a Baptist couldn't feed his own cawn to his own haws
an' do what he wanted with his own side-meat an' haws an' sich. This haws'n a free country yet—least-
wise these year parts air, an' hit's
a-goin' to keep on bein' free, too."

"Help!" cried Diane. When Uncle
Jimmie did not even smile she added, gravely, "I'm not arguing with you, Uncle Jimmie, but you'd best not," the old mountaineer retorted, grimly, "I sure do git het up 'bout sich things, an'
when I'm real hot I'm some dangerous."

Diane felt that in his last statement, at least, Uncle Jimmie had spoken the literal truth.

"Mebbe you're a revenuer yourself, fer all I know," the old man
added. "You can't never tell."

Diane laughed merrily. "Oh,
come now, you know you never heard of a woman revenuer."

"Thar's wimmen ever'whin' else
these days," he retorted, grimly.
"They do say hit war the wimmen
what made them fool licker laws,
an' if they war fools enough to make 'em, why wouldn't they be fools enough to try an' make folks keep 'em? I've even heard tell of wimmen policemen, an' wimmen judges, an' sich, in the cities. I'd sure admire to see any woman try to hold court in this year neck of the woods—least hit war Ann Haskel." His eyes twinkled as he eyed Diane's costume. "I've sure seed
plenty wimmen a-wearin' breeches,
an' I've seed them Lodge wimmen
a-wearin' not much of anything
—natchal, but they war wimmen in the river—right with the men-folks, too.
But, shucks! I know you couldn't be no revenuer," he added, gently
—"not with them eyes. You're too
kind an' friendly-like to go snoop-
in' round makin' trouble fer poor folks what ain't only usin' what the Lawd gave 'em to use."

"Thank you, Uncle Jimmie. I promise not to make trouble for anyone. But tell me, are there really any stills in this neighborhood?"

"That sure is, a purty pitcher
you're a-paintin'," said Uncle Jimmie, thoughtfully.

Diane laughed. "I'm asking you
about stills."

Gravely the old backwoodsman returned, "You got education. What do you say, now; is this year old earth round or flat?"

"Why—why the earth is round,
of course!"

"Uh-huh—I loved you'd say that. What makes you think she's round?"

Diane offered the usual evidence.
"Uh-huh, I reckon that's what the books say, an' hit sounds that a way to hear you tell hit, but taint so. The earth ain't round, she's flat. She jest natchally can't be round, an' what's more I can prove by the Bible she ain't round."

"Oh, of course, if you can prove it by the Bible—"

"Wal, I sure can. Don't hit tell in the Bible 'bout the four angels
a-standin' on the four corners of the earth? Any dad-burned fool would know they couldn't do that if hit war round."

With this Uncle Jimmie arose to his feet and awoke Ann Haskel by climbing into the saddle. "Shay, Shay,
liminary jerk or two of the rope
reins, and a vigorous thump of his heels which Ann Haskel received with melancholy indifference, he said:

"Me an' the old woman would be mighty proud fer you to come an'
see us. Diane, Thar's a heap of purty pitchers on Shady in the Creek,
that's been a long time waitin' fer
somebody to paint 'em. I know they're thar right enough—all the different greens, the dark pines, the hillside rocks, the boulders in the creek, the dancin' shinin' water, the sunpatches an' shadders—oh, I
been a-seein' 'em all my days but I ain't never before seed nobody what could write 'em down with them
little brushes an' paints like you can."

"Oh, thank you, Uncle Jimmie. I should love to. I just follow the trail, do I?"

"Jest foller the trail, hit ain't more'n a mile from the Lodge."

When with reins and heels he had
at last aroused Ann to such interest that the mule seemed actually
on the point of moving, Uncle Jim-

Nydia Westman.

Diphtheria

Death Is

Tragic

Disease Preventable;

Child Should

Be Immunized

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

IT IS impossible to guard against
a disease when a means of prevention is not known. But to succumb to a preventable disease is indeed
tragic.

Diphtheria can be escaped. Statistics show that the great decline
in the death rate due to diphtheria
is due to the protective immunization obtained by the injection
of diphtheria toxin.

Recently a preparation
called "toxoid" has been used instead of toxin anti-toxin.

This new remedy
into use even greater protection has
been offered to children. When tox-
in anti-toxin was first used complete
protection against diphtheria was realized in 70 per cent of cases. The remainder obtained only partial protection. It is much better than that now.

Necessity for Test
In spite of this marked improvement, there is still a small percentage
of persons who do not enjoy complete immunization. It is probable
this is due to some special reaction
of the body. This accounts for the occasional occurrence of diphtheria
in communities where energetic
measures have been taken for the
eradication of the disease.

For this reason, it is advisable that
every child be subjected to a Schick
test. This should be done six months
after receiving the inoculations
against diphtheria. This test enables
the physician to determine whether
or not the child will contract dip-
theria if exposed to the germs of the disease. If the Schick test is positive the child should have the injections repeated.

Bear in mind that the injections
are safe, with practically no pain,
and, above all, are highly effective in preventing diphtheria. It is a protection that is available to everyone.

Common Among Children
I would advise all parents to have
their children immunized against the disease. Diphtheria is prevalent at all times and adequate protection is dis-
persive if the disease is not prevented. It is especially common among children between the ages of
two and seven years. For this reason
it is preferable that injections be
given during the first and second
years. Children who have not been immunized should have this done before entering school.

If your child has been immunized
within the past year, I would advise
that you consult with your physician
about a Schick test. If, after this
has been made, the child shows immunity or protection, there is no disease, there is no need for alarm or anxiety. You can be assured that if
exposed to the germs of diphtheria
he will not contract the disease.

Answers to Health Queries
Mother, Q.—My little girl of two
seems to have lost her appetite. She is a good weight for her age, bright
and energetic. Do you think the trouble may be due to her teeth?

A.—Yes, teething would have a great bearing on this condition. For
full particulars send a self-addressed,
stamped envelope and repeat your
question.

stead of toxin anti-toxin.

This new remedy
into use even greater protection has
been offered to children. When tox-
in anti-toxin was first used complete
protection against diphtheria was
realized in 70 per cent of cases. The
remainder obtained only partial protection. It is much better than that
now.

Necessity for Test
In spite of this marked improvement, there is still a small percentage
of persons who do not enjoy complete immunization. It is probable
this is due to some special reaction
of the body. This accounts for the
occasional occurrence of diphtheria
in communities where energetic
measures have been taken for the
eradication of the disease.

For this reason, it is advisable that
every child be subjected to a Schick
test. This should be done six months
after receiving the inoculations
against diphtheria. This test enables
the physician to determine whether
or not the child will contract dip-
theria if exposed to the germs of the
disease. If the Schick test is positive the child should have the in-
jections repeated.

Bear in mind that the injections
are safe, with practically no pain,
and, above all, are highly effective in
preventing diphtheria. It is a protection that is available to everyone.

Common Among Children
I would advise all parents to have
their children immunized against the
disease. Diphtheria is prevalent at all
times and adequate protection is dis-
persive if the disease is not prevented. It is especially common
among children between the ages of
two and seven years. For this reason
it is preferable that injections be
given during the first and second
years. Children who have not been
immunized should have this done before entering school.

If your child has been immunized
within the past year, I would advise
that you consult with your physician
about a Schick test. If, after this
has been made, the child shows immunity or protection, there is no disease, there is no need for alarm or
anxiety. You can be assured that if
exposed to the germs of diphtheria
he will not contract the disease.

Answers to Health Queries
Mother, Q.—My little girl of two
seems to have lost her appetite. She
is a good weight for her age, bright
and energetic. Do you think the
trouble may be due to her teeth?

A.—Yes, teething would have a
great bearing on this condition. For
full particulars send a self-addressed,
stamped envelope and repeat your
question.
